

Errol's red hot crooning melted hearts

REVIEW

Donna Cooper

EE 4-2-09

Saw Errol Brown at The Music Hall in Aberdeen.

IT MAY have been cold and lashing down with rain outside but inside the Music Hall was red hot – all thanks to Errol Brown. As he sashayed onto the stage, clicking his fingers, Errol did nothing to dispel his sex appeal among his adoring female audience – on what he said will be his last tour. And the charming 60-year-old brought the best out of the sometimes shy Aberdeen crowd, wooing them from the first croon as he swayed those trademark hips.

"The man who put the 'ooh' in cool"

Dressed to kill in a stunning grey suit – the man who put the "ooh" in cool, kicked off the night with sugar-coated love song What Kind Of Boy You Looking For Girl. Other classic, including Brother Louis and Emma, brought the crowd to its feet – some dancing in the aisles to Girl Crazy. From there the hits just kept rolling, including You Win Again and Sexy Thing – reminding many of the audience of their younger days, and at the end of the show Errol wasn't alone in having a tear in his eye.

CHARMER: Errol had the Music Hall audience on its feet. PICTURE BY ANDY THORN